

GET INVOLVED! BECOME AN ECOVERSITY AMBASSADOR!

If you have looked at the University homepage recently, no doubt you will have seen the Ecoversity link. If you have followed that link you will know that the University of Bradford's Ecoversity Project is designed to create:

- A greener, healthier and safer campus environment for students, staff and our surrounding communities.
- Academic programmes that contain elements of 'education for sustainable development' which are relevant and appropriate to your course of study.
- Opportunities for students to get involved in the development of Ecoversity and make a contribution to sustainable development

Getting involved

There is a wide range of opportunities for students to contribute to the Ecoversity Project. Those students who get involved find it a really good way to gain valuable skills, meet new people, build their CV and have some fun!

Opportunities in 2009/2010 include:

- Become your School Ecoversity Ambassador! Consider a paid role within Ecoversity which links up your academic school with the wider Ecoversity initiatives, from events and activities to influencing what you learn.
- Gain an Ecoversity Award! Contribute to your campus community as part of this scheme and get accredited recognition for your efforts. Participants will be supported to make one of the many Ecoversity student-led projects a great success, either as a team leader or team player – you decide how much energy you have to contribute.
- Or come along to one of our Ecoversity events or activities or support some of our Actions details of which will be on our website: www.brad.ac.uk/ecoversity.

If you are interested in one or more of the many different issues around sustainable development – for example, environmental protection, poverty reduction, supporting communities, eco-technologies, corporate social responsibility, developing countries or health and wellbeing then get in touch with Sheri-Leigh Miles (s.miles@bradford.ac.uk) at the Ecoversity Office on the City Campus or the School of Management Academic Pioneers, Jenny Fairbrass (j.fairbrass@bradford.ac.uk) or Kyoko Fukukawa (k.fukukawa.ac.uk) at the School of Management.